Students at St. Joseph's Catholic High School gathered together on Monday October 1st to wear orange shirts in commemoration of the residential schools.

The event was inspired by the story of Phyllis Webstad, who wore an orange shirt on her first day attending a residential school, but had the shirt stripped from her, never to be seen again.

Orange Shirt Day is also an opportunity for First Nations, local governments, schools and communities to come together in the spirit of hope for generations of children to come.

Mr. Orioux, teacher at St. Joe's, shows his support by wearing orange.

This is why the staff at St. Joseph's Catholic High School chose Tuesday October 1st to be a day that they all wore orange shirts.

Brooke Murphy, participant of orange shirt day, said, "It's a great way for the students and teachers to come together in honour of Phyllis Webstad."
